5 January 2018

From the Principal's Desk...

IN TOUCH 01/2018

Dear Parents/Guardian

Greetings!

I would like to take this opportunity to wish all of you a Happy New Year and welcome to a new school year. I hope you have had managed to spend some quality time with your family during the year-end break.

Developing our students holistically and preparing them for the future has always been our key focus. The school firmly believes that every student can learn and wants to learn. We embrace the diversity of our students by striving to create an innovative, vibrant and conducive learning environment. One example is the restructuring of the CCA. Starting from this year, CCA would be conducted on every Friday morning. Opportunities would be created for students to widen their learning experiences and be equipped with fundamental skills to meet the demands of the future. As an educator, one question that we constantly ask ourselves, "Have we instilled the sense of empathy, compassion and awareness, for our students to want to contribute to the school, community and Singapore?" We saw the need to review and revamp our student leadership programme. Currently, we are working on the refinements and more details would be shared at a later date.

In the area of staff development, we would continue to strengthen our staff's competency in unleashing the Joy of Learning in our students through strengthening our processes, enhanced partnership with CPDD, ELIS and NIE.

We look forward to another year of meaningful and fulfilling partnership with you.

Mentoring Programme

The mentoring programme in BPPS is a platform for students and their form teachers to have a 1 to 1 interaction. This helps to establish positive teacher-student relationship (TSR). The mentoring programme also helps to surface issues which the students may be going through. It acts as a good platform for students to confide in their teachers. The interaction between the students and teachers venture into areas like issues faced in school, interest and also the type of support the students may need. Based on the feedback from the students, they find the programme beneficial and that they look forward to the quality time with their form teachers.

Start It Right (SIR)

The Start It Right (SIR) is an orientation programme which aims to engage our students and thereby allowing them to better assimilate into the school environment. Activities such as team bonding and target setting will be carried out during the programme. The students will also be able to acquire pertinent skills which they will require for the rest of the year.

The SIR programme creates an opportunity for the teachers to establish rules, expectations and routines with the class. It allows for teacher-student interaction during which standard operating procedures in the class are co-constructed.

The segments in the START-It-Right or SIR Programme are:

- S – Study Skills
- T – Target setting
- A – Administration
- R – Routines
- T – Team Bonding

Being responsible for their belongings

Being responsible for their belongings is one of the fundamental life skills that a child needs to acquire. We seek your cooperation to work with us in helping your child to learn to be responsible for their belongings. Please do not deliver items (such as books and stationeries) to your child. Students are also not allowed to contact their parents to deliver items that they have forgotten to bring.

Supplementary and Remedial Lessons

Please refer to the attached calendar of events for supplementary and remedial schedule for English, Mathematics and Mother Tongue Languages. Remedial lessons for Primary 1 students will start at a later date so as to provide time for them to ease into the school environment. Separate remedial and supplementary consent forms will be issued.

Assessment

The school supports holistic education and balances assessment for learning and assessment of learning. Students will be given feedback from the various assessment modes to help in their development. Assessment rubrics can be found in page 10 to 12 of the student's diary.

Please note that there will be no make-up for P2 SA2, CAs and SAs for P3-P6 levels. This is to ensure that results are valid and reliable. If your child would like to take the tests/examinations when they return, they will be allowed to do so. However the marks will not be included in the report book.

Raising Grateful Children, Not Just Polite Ones

“Remembering and appreciating the good things that happened to us during the day can change our perspective.”

Taken from Schoolbag.sg, Ministry of Education

“Say thank you!”

Growing up, many of us hear this simple instruction uttered by our parents, and now, we echo the same to our children. But is teaching our children to say thanks enough? Does it make them truly grateful people, or are they merely polite? And why is gratitude all that important anyway?

Studies have found that there are many benefits to practising gratitude. They’ve observed an increase in levels of satisfaction and positive emotion, improved sleep quality, lowering of negative emotions and an ability to better cope with stress. People who are grateful also have deeper relationships and are helpful.

There are many ways to practise gratitude. Here are two fun methods that are based on research and curated by the Greater Good Science Centre at the University of California, Berkeley, which you can try with your child. Doing these on a regular basis helps to make gratitude a habit, and they come to our aid during times of stress.

Three Good Things

Remembering and appreciating the good things that happened to us during the day can change our perspective. We may have had a bad day and feel that everything went wrong, but this practice helps us notice the good things as well.

How to do it

Together with your child, spend about 10 minutes at the end of each day writing down three things that went well that day and reflect on them.

The three things can be big or small and you may ask your child to think about why they think these things happened.

Mental Subtraction of Relationship

When we try to imagine our lives without certain people, we realise how important they are and how fortunate we are. Recognising these important relationships reminds us not to take these people for granted.

How to do it

Trying using the following script for yourself first to experience the process. Modify it to guide your child through this gratitude practice. This practice could be repeated for different people in your child’s life, ranging from the family, friends to even the people you meet in the neighbourhood.

1. Take a moment to think about one person in your life – this could be a family member, friend or anyone you know.
2. Think back to where and how you met this person.
3. Imagine how your life would now be if things were different, and you had never met this person.
4. Think about the joy and benefits you have experienced and enjoyed as a result of the friendship or relationship – consider how you would feel if you were denied all of them.
5. Shift your focus to remind yourself that you did actually meet this person. Reflect on all the benefits that this relationship has brought you. Now that you have considered how things might have turned out differently, appreciate that the benefits from this relationship were not certain in your life.
6. Allow yourself to feel grateful for things that happened as they did, and that this person is now in your life.
7. As a follow-up, consider expressing what you are thankful for to this person through words or a written note.

Thank you.
